Subject: fdic Special Assessmemt

The alleged need for the fdic to increase the fees charged to insure deposits by savers in local banks spreads to this area some of the malaise associated with the home loan practices of banks in other areas.. Very unfair, and unwise. A bank's past history of solid operation should be taken into account.

Sen. Carl Levin and Sen Debbie Stabenow would do well to do their job of overseeing the banking industry at the federal level by looking at the political pressure applied by Chris Dodd, Barnie Frank, Scheumer and the rest associated at Fannie Mae and Freddie Mack and with the likes of some officials like former bank President Raines, etal, and stop the politically motivated practice of encouraging banks to make loans to inadequate borrowers.
