consumers easily compare prices to lease smart video devices from their MVPDs and/or purchase them in retail outlets? Therefore, we request information regarding the different types of consumer premises equipment—both MVPD supplied and non-MVPD supplied—used to access video content and the capabilities thereof. We also seek information and comment on how competition among video programming distributors is affected by developments related to consumer premises equipment, such as electronic programming guides, two-way functionality, and CableCARDs that permit the reception of secured programming services without a leased set-top box, and developments in the regulatory environment for consumer premises equipment. We also request information regarding digital rights management technology and issues that affect the availability of video programming to consumers. We seek information to analyze the relationships between MVPDs that deliver video programming and manufacturers of consumer premises equipment, especially cable and DBS set-top boxes and devices that enable consumers to move video delivered over the Internet to televisions.

Consumer Behavior

56. We seek information about how trends in consumer behavior affect the products and services of providers of delivered video programming. We seek data on trends that compare consumer viewing of regularly scheduled video programming with viewing of time-shifted programming using DVRs, VOD content, and OVD content. Are consumers who are not “cutting” the MVPD cord “shaving” their subscriptions by, for example, substituting Netflix for premium channels or VOD services? Do consumers view OVD service in conjunction with over-the-air broadcast television service as a potential substitute for MVPD service?

57. We seek data, information, and comment on the development of consumer information sources for delivered video programming services and equipment. Do consumers have sufficient information to compare the prices, services, and equipment that video distributors offer? What do consumers consider most important when choosing a provider? What do consumers say are the main reasons for switching providers (e.g., price, quantity, quality)?
