SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

The FDIC is withdrawing the notices of proposed rulemaking described below. The FDIC no longer intends to issue final rules with respect to these proposals. If the FDIC decides to pursue future regulatory action in any of these areas, it will issue a new proposed rule.

Brokered Deposits Proposal

On August 23, 2024, the FDIC published a proposed rule that would have significantly revised its regulations related to brokered deposits.¹ Revamping the brokered deposit rule would be a major undertaking that would significantly disrupt many aspects of the deposit landscape. Among other issues, the proposal would have adopted a narrow interpretation of the primary purpose exception inconsistent with the plain meaning of the law, and a broad, sweeping provision related to fees and remuneration. More generally, the proposal failed to account for the myriads of ways in which deposit arrangements have evolved over the years.

Corporate Governance Proposal

On October 11, 2023, the FDIC published a proposed rule that would have established new, enforceable safety and soundness standards related to corporate governance for FDIC-supervised institutions with $10 billion or more in total consolidated assets.² Although the FDIC recognizes that sound corporate governance and appropriate controls are important for banks of all sizes, the proposed rule would have created a number of overly prescriptive and process-oriented expectations rather than focusing on core safety and soundness risks. In addition, the proposed rule would have conflated the roles of management and the board of directors, created unworkable expectations, and, in certain areas, would have conflicted with applicable state law.

Change in Bank Control Act Proposal

On August 19, 2024, the FDIC published a proposed rule that would have amended its regulations implementing the Change in Bank Control Act by removing an exemption from the requirement to submit a notice to the FDIC for an acquisition of voting securities of a depository institution holding company for which the Federal Reserve reviews a Change in Bank Control Act notice.³ Removing this exemption would have required a wide range of bank investors to file duplicative notices with both the FDIC and the Federal Reserve System and could have discouraged capital investments in FDIC-supervised banks.

Withdrawal of Proposed Rules

The FDIC is withdrawing these notices of proposed rulemaking because, as noted above, it no longer intends to issue final rules with respect to these proposals. If the FDIC decides to pursue future regulatory action in any of these areas, it will do so by publishing a new proposed rule or other issuance consistent with the requirements of the Administrative Procedure Act, as applicable.

Airworthiness Directives; The Boeing Company Airplanes

AGENCY: Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), DOT.

ACTION: Notice of proposed rulemaking (NPRM).

SUMMARY: The FAA proposes to adopt a new airworthiness directive (AD) for certain The Boeing Company Model 787–8, 787–9, and 787–10 airplanes. This proposed AD was prompted by reports of multiple nonconformances, including excessive gaps and pull-up, found during the assembly and installation of the forward pressure bulkhead. This proposed AD would require an internal and external detailed inspection (DET) of the forward pressure bulkhead (FPB) for any damage and performing applicable on-condition actions. The FAA is proposing this AD to address the unsafe condition on these products.
