Highlights:

- The FDIC Board of Directors recently approved the final rule to implement the One-Time Assessment Credit, as required by the Federal Deposit Insurance Reform Act of 2005. The rule takes effect today, November 17, 2006.
- An institution's Preliminary Statement of One-Time Credit is available only through FDICconnect, the FDIC's e-business portal.
- An institution may request a review of its One-Time Assessment Credit eligibility or amount no later than December 18, 2006.
- Because the amounts shown in the Statement will not reflect credits as a result of transfers under the "de facto rule," an institution claiming credits under this rule must file a request for review.
- An institution that does not request a review of its One-Time Assessment Credit eligibility or amount by December 18, 2006, will be barred from subsequently requesting a review.
- If an institution agrees with the information presented on the Preliminary Statement of One-Time Assessment Credit, it does not need to take any further action.
- Refer to Financial Institution Letter (FIL)-93-2006, issued October 18, 2006, for a copy of the final rule and guidelines for filing a request for review.
