Gentlemen:

Neighborhood Lending Partners, Inc. is a partnership between banks, thrifts, local governments, and the affordable housing community. Our members are banks, and thrift institutions throughout the State of Florida. Membership in NLP gives these institutions a way to support affordable housing while sharing the costs and risks. It also enhances their ability to meet community credit needs, in accordance with the Community Reinvestment Act.

We appreciate the opportunity to comment on the joint interagency proposal by the FDIC, OCC and Federal Reserve Board to update the CRA rules, principally by replacing the current-3 part Large Bank Lending, Investment and Services Test, with a new 2-part test for insured depository institutions between $250 million and $1 billion in assets, consisting of two separately weighted tests of equal weight: the Small Bank Lending Test and a new Community Development Test. We very much support this proposal, which actually encourages banks to lend, invest, and provide services to low- and moderate-income communities. In addition, we commend the three bank regulatory agencies for persistence and hard work in continuing to solicit and consider public comment, and issuing a balanced interagency proposal that constructively updates and modernizes the CRA regulations.

As you well know, CRA is one of the least known but perhaps most remarkable success stories of domestic policy. CRA has fostered hundreds of partnerships between lenders and non-profit providers and local governments that have been instrumental in increasing homeownership, boosting economic development, and expanding small businesses, contributing to more vibrant communities. As government subsidies for affordable housing and community and economic development have diminished, the private capital provided by insured depository institutions has been critical to non-profit providers and local governments that try to leverage limited subsidy dollars.

We believe the flexible new Community Development Test will help overcome problems with the current Large Bank exam by providing insured depository institutions actual

CRA credit for all community development activities, including loans and investments as well as services, thereby encouraging banks to undertake the complex, resource-intensive affordable housing and other community development loans that are critical in many low- and moderate-income communities.

We encourage you to invite the OTS to rescind its recent CRA rule changes, which are harmful to low- and moderate-income communities, and to join you in your responsive interagency proposal.

Finally, the principles underlying the Community Development Test would also increase the regulatory incentives for institutions above $1 billion in assets to undertake community development loans. We encourage you to update the rules for larger institutions as well.

Sincerely,
