SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: In accordance with the Privacy Act of 1974, as amended, the FDIC has conducted a review of its Privacy Act systems of records and has determined that it needs to introduce three new systems of records, and to revise twenty-three existing system of records notices. The FDIC previously published one or more of its existing system of records notices at various times. These publications may be viewed at the FDIC's Privacy Act Web page: <http://www.fdic.gov/about/privacy/>.

The FDIC proposes to revise twenty-three existing system of records notices. There are four types of revisions: (1) Generalized edits to make it easier to read and understand through consistent style, formatting, and manner of presentation; (2) minor, technical amendments necessitated by organizational changes within the FDIC; (3) minor revisions to clarify or more accurately describe various system elements and to insure the use of consistent language wherever possible; and (4) elaboration of the FDIC's routine uses for consistency with other FDIC notices, and to fulfill new requirements for routine uses including responding to, preventing, minimizing, or remedying, harm that may result from a data breach or compromise.

The FDIC also proposes to add three new system of records notices to cover information maintained by new data technology systems that collect, process, or store personal information. The first new system of records is designated as FDIC-30-64-0028 (Office of the Chairman Correspondence Records). This system of records will be used to support the administration of correspondence addressed to the FDIC, Office of the Chairman. The second new system of records is designated as FDIC-30-64-0029 (Congressional Correspondence Records). This system of records will be used to document and respond to constituent and other inquiries forwarded by Members of the U.S. Congress or Congressional staff. The third new system of records is designated as FDIC-30-64-0030 (Legislative Information Tracking System Records). This system of records will be used to track Congressional inquiries and ensure that responses are made in a timely manner. More detailed information on the proposed new and revised systems of records may be viewed in the complete text below.
