Ref.: Implementation of Basel III

Dear Sirs;

Southern Bank is a small, closely held, state chartered bank. We have always serviced our community and its citizens. This task has been very trying since the downturn of the economy in 2008. The Dodd-Frank Act has also put the biggest burden on Small Community Banks, in low income areas. Even under these new regulations we have been able to survive, even though they have put adverse conditions on the Small Community Banks in servicing our community.

Now comes Basel III. I have been in this industry 40 years and still see Leverage Capital as the main working tool for daily management. We then saw the creation of Risk Base Capital and now the Basel III formula. This Basel III formula will have adverse affect on the community banks. This change could not have come at a worse time. It has the potential to chill the modest real estate recovery we are seeing in our area.

Our capital is above regulation requirements and we want it to stay there. I am asking that small community banks, under one billion dollars, be exempt from the is new capital requirements. We are the size banks that service the majority of the smaller communities. A better solution would be to repeal the whole Basel III section.
