

From: Anders Karlsson [mailto:karlssonpataket@gmail.com]
Sent: Friday, October 01, 2010 4:19 PM
To: Overdraft Comments
Subject: Over draft fees

Hi

I am immensely troubled by the over draft fees that my bank handles. For example the practice to change the order in which my bank withdrawals take place. I can begin a day buying coffee having 500 dollars in my bank account and then maybe a gum at a grocery store. Then comes an automatic withdrawal of 500 dollars (and you never know exactly what day they will come in) and I will be charged for all three items a hefty sum of 75 dollars instead of what is logical of one over draft fee of 35 dollar . It's criminal!!! How can this be legal? I have a family to support and I am struggling like many families do! Horrid practice! It needs to be stopped! NOW! The banks are disgusting in their practice's and who can function in our society without it. Also the bankss prey on families that are used to having a much better economical situation and have been severely effected by the poor economy. I think this will turn into a class action law suit unless you do something and then the banks will have to reverse the fees these past years. Must be billions...where is the money going to come from? This is not the way the banks should handle their financial situations.

Please do something about this!

Isobel Gardner
310-6914590