Highlights:

- The final rule revised the FDIC's deposit insurance regulations (12 C.F.R. Part 330) to define the SMDIA as $250,000 and to remove provisions indicating that the SMDIA will return to $100,000.
- The final rule revised the FDIC's official sign for advertising deposit insurance coverage, as prescribed in 12 C.F.R. Part 328 of the FDIC's regulations, to reflect the permanent SMDIA. The change to the official sign is effective immediately.
- To ensure depositors are accurately informed of the permanent SMDIA of $250,000, insured depository institutions should promptly obtain the new official signs and, upon receipt, display them without delay – in any event not later than January 3, 2011, the date for mandatory compliance with the final rule.
- Insured depository institutions may order FDIC official signs from the FDIC at <https://vcart.velocitypayment.com/fdic/>. There is no charge for decals and counter signs provided by the FDIC.
- The FDIC's deposit insurance coverage materials posted on its website – including the Electronic Deposit Insurance Estimator, "EDIE" – have been updated to reflect the permanent $250,000 coverage.
