Dear FDIC,

My name is Brian Houg.

I have been majorly impacted by this news. I only learned about this news today even though it's been going on for several months. I only learned about this because I was considering moving all my funds to a different account that yields higher interest rates, only to realize that fund transfers are all blocked. I fear there may be millions of victims that have not even learned of this news yet and the comments are so low due to people being uninformed, and yet the deadline to submit a comment is the end of this month. I think there needs to be better communication so we can get more engagement from the victims affected. I hope I'm protected by FDIC and that the millions of users affected by this can get our money back.

Best Regards,
Brian
